Luella,

When someone is going to leave your presence forever, it would seem there might be something lasting to say to them but words futile and lack real meaning. I would wish that you have happiness throughout your life and that there would always be flowers in the spring time of your life now and sunshine in the winter of your life in the future. May people always return the love that you give them and may they never hurt you with their cruel words. Bless you, Luella, for being you.
